

outstanding office action. Applicant certifies that no new matter has been added to the original substitute specification and that all corrections made are editorial corrections.

The Examiner is thanked for his comments and suggestions regarding the language, grammar, and spelling errors and difficulties present in the application. The substitute specification has been reworked to answer all of the concerns presented. The new claims have been fashioned with these comments in mind as well.

Please note that the material inserted on the 12th through 17th pages of the marked version (that is not language, grammar or spelling corrections) is all material directly copied from the parent patent 6,261,459 or taken from the original claims language. The compositional breakdowns were alluded to in the original specification but for some reason never copied over from the parent. There is no new material.

The tables formerly roughly drafted have been inserted into the substitute specification with complete column headings and improved presentation (18th and 19th pages of substitute specification).
